DULL ENDING OF

No Relief in Sight for Existing Stagnant Conditions on Stock Market.

THE READING CENTRAL FIGHT

Loss of Nearly a Point in This Stock Index to Entire Movement.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 17.—Small business for to-day's half session closed a dull week on the Stock Exchange and afforded no relief to the existing stagnant coned no rener to the existing stagnant con-ditions. The most significant feature in the market was the loss of nearly a point in Reading, which was the only stock to show any activity or strength yesterday. This was the index of the day's whole movement. Declines of varying fractions are the Declines of varying fractions are the rule. The quasi-fictitious nature of the transactions by the professional tradare seems to be absolutely without a sustaining basis in any actual business, either by sellers or buyers of socks. Small as were yesterday's advances the traders had no other resource to-day than to reverse their position, yesterday's narrow movement having exhausted the possibility of an upward movement. The lineria of the market is complete, except for these timid ventures by a small remnant of traders.

The heavy tone of the market was accentuated to a very slight extent after the appearance of the bank statement. The increase in deposits was principally due to loan expansion and while the reserve requirement was thus increased some $1.113,000, the cash increase amounted to only $1.855,000. The result was a shrinkage in the surplus of $2.615,000 to $7.200.

The activity in Japanese 41-2 certificates continued, but their narrow range made them less attractive for trading operations than on yesterday.

Total sales of bonds, par value, $2,355,- 000.

The total sales of stocks to-day amounted to 84,700 shares.

Norfolk Peanut Market.

Norfolk Peanut Market.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK, VA., June II.—The puanut trade is in an unsatisfactory condition. The prices are too light and the consumer is reluctant or shy. He will not have peanuts unless they are cheap. He is not compelled to have them. There is neither force nor necessity to urge him to buy peanuts at one or two cents a pound above their normal value, and he will not buy them. That is all there is about the heart of the pound above their normal value, and he will not buy them. That is all there is about the heart of the season. That is a very small profit, for the season. That is the condition for the present. The prices a very small profit, for the season. That is the condition for the present. The prices of high, and it is too high now to the factories to buy, clean and put them out the market at a profit. Thus no peanuts were then a cents a pound to clean and but then out the market at a profit. Thus no peanut for less than 3 cents a pound of the season can be sought for less than 3 cents a pound to realize the "necessary profit from the interior peanuts, at more than 4 cents a pound, and the retailer at more than 6 cents a pound to realize the "necessary profit from the outlay and the labor. Just there the consumer appears. He says he doean't need peanuts, there are bananas, other fruits, chewing gum and soft dricks to satisfy his appetite, and the peanut's superior attractions are neglected and defled. Meantime the farmers atook was started at a high price at the herginning of the season and has been increasing beyond the demands of the consumers, while the limites and over-anxious cleaners have been cleaning and selling peanuts without realizing the requisite profit and the farmers have been cleaning and selling peanuts without realizing the requisite profit and the farmers have been cleaning and selling peanuts without realizing the requisite profit and the farmers have been cleaning and selling peanuts without realizing the requisite profit and the farmers have
